

GENERAL JONAS ŽEMAITIS MILITARY ACADEMY

EXPERTS GUIDE

Aušra Kaminskaitė

Lecturer at the defense economics and management research group

Education:

Master (joint with bachelor) History and social science, Vilnius university, Lithuania, 1987

Ph. D – Doctoral studies (Sociology), Kaunas university of Technology, Lithuania, 1992-2000

Biography:

Lecturer at the defense economics and management research group at the General Jonas Žemaitis military academy of Lithuania. She has twenty-five years teaching experience at the military academy (taught courses such as sociology, military sociology, sociology of work and occupations, organizational behavior, academic writing, introduction to management, management of social infrastructure institutions, etc.). She is member of military sociologists' organizations such as ERGOMAS (Europe research group on military and society) also ISMS (International society for military sciences).

Area of Expertise:

Military sociology, organizational behavior, human security, academic writing.

Research interest:

Civil military relations, leadership at the asymmetric warfare, leadership education, military profession, organizational socialization.

Publications/ Projects:

She is the author of several scientific articles as well as international conference papers. As the researcher she took part in several national and international research projects. Few international projects to mention - leaders and commanders in the asymmetric warfare, cadet socialization in the European military academies, etc.

ausra.kaminskaite@lka.lt